

MIAMI HERALD

FEB 14 1962

Approved For Release 1999/09/16 : CIA-RDP70-00058R00020

THE MIAMI HERALD

Wednesday, Feb. 14, 1962

Tunnel Built to Bury Terminals

Fourth in a series of 12 articles excerpted from the book, "CIA: The Inside Story," an up-to-date report on the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, most secret organization of the U.S. Government.

By ANDREW TULLY

On a summer's day in 1954, the manager of a state-owned button manufacturing plant in Communist Berlin picked up the phone and called a supplier across town. When a voice answered, Otto Bauer was all business.

"I have authority to negotiate with you, Herr Hauptman," said Bauer. "If you could bring your samples over again we could discuss the matter further."

An hour later Bauer and Hauptman were deep in negotiations.

The discussion continued for nearly two hours, concerned mostly with prices and delivery deadlines.

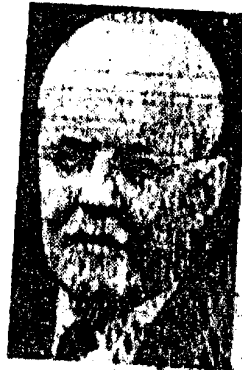

When Hauptman left Bauer's office he had a contract in his pocket and a covering letter.

although these are not their names, and none of them has anything to do with the button or wholesale clothing business.

The telephone cable terminus bit was quite a trickle, and CIA went to work on it at once. Because in espionage nothing is taken for granted, there first was a check on the information that took nearly three months to complete. Finally, the information checked out by means of a simple process.

How Do We Get To It?

"SOMEBODY" IN THE SO

Allen W. Dulles
... he was huge boxes plastered with a variety of innocuous labels that would seem innocent to the Communist spies. The work went on steadily, day after day, week without a break. Then one day, the work was stopped. The work was stopped with the announcement that the public was to be informed of the work. The work was stopped with the announcement that the public was to be informed of the work.

lives of foreign agents for the United States who changed their mode of operations because of messages passing through that tunnel.

NEXT — The Value of Spies.

placed on agents to the cable. It was impossible to cord these cables. The Communist cables had to be cut from West Berlin.

CHAIN LINK FENCE 48

INSTALLED WITH TOP RAIL PER LINEAL FOOT TERMINAL POST & GATES EXTRA MINIMUM 100 FT.

98¢ CHASTAIN FENCE

DADE—MU 8-084 BROWARD

chrome handbars

MURR

AMER